

Education & Justice Tutor

RYSE creates safe spaces grounded in social justice that build youth power for young people to love, learn, educate, heal and transform lives and communities.

Type: part-time, contract position, youth development, non-profit

Hours: Monday - Thursday from 3:00 - 6:00 pm; 12 hours a week

RYSE Center Overview: The RYSE Youth Center supports the development of young people (13-21) through a holistic approach that engages participants in programs and services grounded in the principles of youth leadership and social justice. RYSE contributes to the health and economic vitality of youth and their communities by reducing violence and increasing youth participation and leadership in civic activities, improving mental health, increasing educational attainment and expanding career options for youth and cultivating critical and creative voices to support in reflecting and expressing their own experiences and experiences of their peers.

Overview of Program Area: With RYSE's mission statement as its mandate, the Education and Justice Department was established to directly address inequities within three systems that at various points intersect and all too often have a disproportionate negative impact on youth of color. EJD offers onsite and offsite programming that strengthens young people's ability to successfully navigate the education, economic and juvenile justice systems and empowers them to be advocates for change. Study Up is a tutoring program the aims to support the academic achievement of RYSE members.

Job Description: Under the supervision of the Economic Justice Program Manager, the tutor is primarily responsible for supporting members who come into the Study Up program for help on various academic subjects. This support includes daily tutoring and exam readiness,
